CANADA'S PREMIER BUSINESS SCHOOL

Queen's School of Business is one of the world's premier business schools and has earned international recognition for its innovative approaches to business education.

In addition to its highly acclaimed MBA programs, Queen's School of Business is also home to Canada's most prestigious undergraduate business program and several outstanding graduate programs. As well, the School is one of the world's largest and most respected providers of executive education.

A RICH HISTORY OF ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE

Queen's University has a rich academic tradition dating back to 1841, when it was granted a Royal Charter from Queen Victoria, and is consistently ranked among Canada's very best universities.

Globally Connected

Due to its strong reputation, Queen's School of Business attracts top students from across Canada and around the world. The School maintains international exchange partnerships with more than 100 respected business schools in over 40 countries, and welcomes almost 500 international exchange students annually.

Internationally Accredited

Queen's School of Business is fully accredited by the world's two leading accreditation bodies - AACSB (The Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business) and EQUIS, through the European Foundation for Management Development.

Goodes Hall – Home of Queen's School of Business

Goodes Hall, the home of Queen's School of Business, combines an exquisitely restored 45,000-square-foot 120-year-old Victorian schoolhouse with 143,000-square-feet of bold new design and structure.

September 2012 marked the completion of a significant expansion of Goodes Hall, that includes several new state-of-the-art classrooms, student breakout rooms and many enhanced features for our students.

Canada – A Culture of Diversity

Since the 1970's Canada has officially embraced a policy of multiculturalism. As a result, Canada's 32 million citizens represent a rich cultural cross-section of global society.

Canada, ranked #3 in the world for Quality of Life by the United Nation, provides a clean and safe living environment.

LIFE IN KINGSTON

With a population of 160,000, Kingston is a thriving small city located on the northeast shore of Lake Ontario, at the source of the St. Lawrence River.

It is centrally located within a three-hour drive of Toronto, Montréal and Ottawa, and a six-hour drive of New York City and Boston. Kingston boasts a superb quality of life due to its big city amenities, waterfront location and rich natural landscape.

Established as a British fort in 1673, the city is blessed with a rich civic and architectural heritage, a safe and welcoming environment, and economic anchors of academia, government and industry. Recently, Kingston was ranked as having one of the top three vibrant downtowns in Canada.

More than anything, Kingston is a university town, home to three post-secondary institutions and more than 26,000 students. In the summer, it is a bustling tourist destination, due in part to its reputation as “the fresh-water sailing capital of the world”. Its eclectic downtown offers a variety of shops, restaurants and cultural resources not usually found in a city of this size. In fact, there are more than 100 restaurants to be found within a nine-block area in the downtown core.

The majority of Queen’s students live within a 15-minute walk to campus, eliminating the time-consuming commutes associated with universities in larger urban centres. As part of the greater Queen’s University community, you will have access to extensive student services, clubs, libraries and athletic facilities.
